

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An achievement recognition item may be ordered through an interactive, on-line network site that allows a potential customer to personalize and customize the achievement recognition item. Information that includes user-selected specifications for customizing and personalizing features of the achievement recognition item is received through the network site from the user. The achievement recognition item may then be produced in accordance with the user-selected specifications.

15 30166156.doc